Titel: Procurement - Locks, fittings and access control with the accompanying goods and services, 2026

Beschreibung: The aim of the contracts is to cover the customer's need for locks, fittings and access control with the accompanying goods and services in accordance with the requirement specifications. Tenderers must be able to deliver, assemble and maintain most types of locks and fittings, as well as produce and deliver keys etc. Tenderers must also be able to deliver, assemble and maintain goods and services connected to the lock and access control system (e.g. iLOQ and ARX including licences), as well as door automation, door closers and door pumps. The customer has a large and varied building stock and therefore needs a wide range of such goods and services. Assignments in this agreement will mainly consist of the delivery and installation of locks and fittings for doors, establishment and installation of a lock system and access control, service assignments and consultancy services. Tenderers must be able to handle both planned/ordinary assignments and urgent assignments (critical or non-critical) that require a short response time. This procurement is divided into two (geographical) sub-contracts (1. Northern and second. Søre). For each of the sub-contracts, the customer would like to enter into framework agreements with several tenderers (parallel framework agreements), provided that there are a sufficient number of qualified tenderers.

Optionen:

Beschreibung der Optionen: Option: Service agreement: The customers carry out some maintenance in their buildings, and in addition service assignments are somewhat call-offs in accordance with the call-off mechanisms on this contract when needed. Service/maintenance contracts shall therefore not be included in the tenderer's offered prices. There can, however, be cases where the customer considers it appropriate and would like to have a separate service agreement for a concrete delivery. This is therefore an option in this agreement, which the customer can choose to request and possibly trigger in each call-off. Any such service agreement shall not be worse than what is normal to be achieved in the branch for the relevant type of delivery. Any such service contract shall be for five years from completion of the delivery and with annual service control/inspection - unless the customer specifies otherwise in the concrete call-off. The option will not be evaluated in this competition. The option can, however, be subject to evaluation in each mini competition - both as regards price and content /terms.
