II.1.4. Information about framework agreement

II.1.5. Short description of the contract or purchase(s)

Miscellaneous services. Training and simulation in aircraft, missiles and spacecraft. Repair, maintenance and associated services related to aircraft and other equipment. Management-related services. To provide assets for the purpose of training military pilots (including simulation training) to meet a pilot throughput of approximately around 45 trained personnel. this equates to between 4 500 and 5 500 flying hours per annum, though this final total will be confirmed when the ITT is issued. All services to meet this requirement, such as first line handling, and engineering records will be required to meet this service. The aircraft will need to be put on the military register to comply with low flying requirements and companies should note that MOD has recently introduced the Military Aviation Authority to oversee flying operations so any tenderer must be able to meet this specification. Bidders may wish to be aware that a separate contract in respect to the multi-activity services to further support the flying training will be issued very shortly.

The provision of multi engine pilot training will be over 4 years, with the option of an additional 2, one year extensions at an estimated range of value excluding VAT: 40 000 000 - 50 000 000. The Statement of requirement will contain the following sections - aircraft leasing, management and administration, contingency planning services, engineering records, flight simulation. The MOD reserves the right to use non-competitive pricing techniques such as no acceptable price no contract (Napnoc) in order to ensure value for money. Any potential bidder must therefore be prepared to move quickly from a competitive route to a non-competitive route in this procurement process should there not be effective competition for this requirement. Other services will be provided to the contractor by RAF Cranwell via a multi activity contract. Bidders may wish to be aware that a separate contract is due to follow in respect to the multi-activity services which will further support the flying training and will be issued soon.
