We expect all our leaders, regardless of background, level of experience and position in the organisation, to demonstrate the following attributes:

- compassion (attend to the people they lead, understand their challenges, empathise and help them),
- emotional intelligence (understand themselves and others, manage relationships),
- inclusiveness (listen to all respectfully, and engage with authenticity),
- commitment (to quality, innovation and improvement).

We require a programme that will address the range of skills and behaviours our leaders are expected to model in a variety of settings. These were considered in the context of:

- our expectation that leaders work with their teams to consistently deliver excellent care and continuously seek improvement,
- the need to engage staff in their roles and in their contribution to the delivery of consistently high quality services,
- the need for leaders to always demonstrate our values,
- the importance of prioritising and adopting leadership skills that will have the greatest impact on staff engagement and involvement in our Quality Improvement Programme.
