This includes the changing Commissioner and Provider forms and functions, the changing commissioning and contracting approach including the introduction of an outcomes framework, an understanding of the impact on population health outcomes and an understanding of the economic impacts and implications.
- The delivery of the new integrated service solution. This includes the transformational changes across the health and social care economy as well as looking at the changes in perceptions of staff, the public, patients and carers.

— A comparison between the service people currently experience and the new model of care, whether outcomes are improved in the new system and whether the system is financially sustainable.
