The delivery of LED strips with drivers for a part of the Project New Internal Lighting in the Nidaros Cathedral.

The Nidaros Cathedral is listed in accordance with the Cultural Heritage Act. Due to the building's listing status and its cultural monument and symbolic values, there are very restricted requirements for the measures and visual changes that can be made on the building. This means restricted mounting opportunities for the lighting system, in addition to a requirement for hiding as much as possible of the lighting fittings from the Cathedral's main room. Stringent demands are made for the size, the brightness and the stability of fastening devices and the design of fittings, as a lot of the equipment must be placed in great heights above the audience.
