II.2.4. Description of the procurement

New methods are a system for the implementation and out phasing methods for the specialist health service. In this context, the 'Specialist health service' includes all public or publicly funded hospitals and hospital services. The term method is defined as all measures used to prevent, assess, diagnose and treat illnesses, as well as measures for rehabilitation of patients and the organisation of health services. Examples of methods are medicine indications, medical equipment and medical and surgical procedures and diagnostic tests.

The evaluation of the system for new methods shall identify and describe whether the current organisation of and case management processes in the system are appropriately designed and suitable for achieving the defined objectives. Based on the mapping and description, the evaluation shall identify barriers and possible changes in organisation and case management, as well as assess and propose measures for the system to improve basic purposes and the need for transparency, trust and legitimacy in the health service and the population. To the extent possible and relevant, the evaluation should include comparisons with similar systems in other countries.

II.2.9. Information about the limits on the number of candidates to be invited

Envisaged minimum number: 3 Maximum number: 5 Objective criteria for choosing the limited number of candidates:

Requirement: degree of comprehensiveness and relevance of the stated reference assignments, cf. point 5.4.

The following will be emphasised in the assessment:

- scope and complexity,
- relevance, including assignment from the public sector including government owned entities.

Documentation: the tenderer's response to the qualification requirement in point 5.4 on reference assignments. No more than three reference assignments are to be presented. The presentation should only be one A4 page per assignment.

If the assignments are executed outside Norway by resources who normally do not work in Norway, the tenderer must verify routines for any experience transfer to the Norwegian tenderer.

Requirement: degree of comprehensiveness and relevance of the tenderer's competence and capacity.

The following will be emphasised in the assessment:

- degree of relevant competence and experience of employees, distributed respectively in relation to junior, middle and senior level;
- the number of employees with relevant competence and experience at the tenderer.

Documentation: the tenderer's response to the qualification requirement in point 5.4 on the tenderer's competence, including an overview of education and professional qualifications for employees with relevant knowledge and experience for the assignment.

The overview of employees with relevant competence and experience is to be given in an appropriate table format and it ought, as a minimum, to include information on education, experience and indicate which selected competence areas each individual resource has. The overview should not exceed four A4 pages.

If the overview includes employees with a permanent workplace outside Norway, documentation must be presented for the practice of engaging resources across national borders.

II.2.10. Information about variants
