Here it will be interesting to look at employment, participation in nurseries, primary and secondary schools, sixth form colleges, and higher education, the introduction programme, and language training, etc.

There is also an aim to use the evaluation to improve hearing and law work in an extraordinary situation or crisis.

The government will, in light of future developments, assess whether there is a need to propose other changes and measures than those included in the hearing note on the continuation of the temporary rules in the law due to the arrival of persons fleeing Ukraine etc., in order to manage extraordinary arrivals from Ukraine. This can, for example, be stand-by legal basis in different laws. There will be an option as part of the follow-up evaluation assignment for an expansion of the project to include the evaluation of such changes. Whether it will be relevant to carry out this part will depend on the consideration of the Proposition and when any changes to the law come into force.
