II.1.4. Short description

NRK is an organisation in continual development in order to be able to respond to the public's changing needs. As described above, we will work more in multidisciplinary teams that work in frequent learning cycles in close contact with the public, and that use data and insight to measure and decide what improvements shall be made.

We will strengthen the cooperation between departments and divisions, and aim to develop organisation structures and systems that support this way of working. There is also an expressed desire to reduce the complexity and increase the flexibility in the organisation. We will, thus, develop the organisation - both culturally and structurally in the direction of a more flexible organisation. We need consultants who can assist NRK in these types of management and organisation development processes.
