II.1.4. Short description

Norsk Rikskringkasting AS, hereafter called NRK, plans to procure a system for contribution and transfer of media streams over the Internet for broadcasting purposes. The aim of the system is that it can be used as a complement or replacement to traditional media transfer systems, based on 'carrier technology', with guaranteed capacity (such as satellite, fibre, or hired capacity). The new system is expected to give equally good quality, performance, and stability as with these.

See the complete contest documentation - 2 annexes.

II.1.5. Estimated total value
