II.2.3. Place of performance

NUTS code: NO0A2 Vestland

Main site or place of performance: Heggernes measuring station, 5314 Kjerrgarden, Askøy, Norway

II.2.4. Description of the procurement

There are two identical hydraulic winches at Heggernes measuring station that are used to spool in/out cabling. These winches date from 1993 and are worn out and ready to be replaced. They will be replaced by two identical new electric winches that will perform the same job.

A system with two winches that spool cables over each other (i.e. the winches are physically positioned/designed so that one cable passes just above the other). The tenderer can choose whether to deliver two separate winches and construct a suitable system for this, or offer a possible standard system with both winches integrated on a shared frame, as is the case with the existing old winches.

The winches shall be operated separately one at a time and must be able to do this using the existing power supply at the measuring station, which is 230V AC 60Hz 63A.

The existing slip rings and coupling boxes will be removed from the existing old winches and used on the new winches.

The assignment is further described in Annex 1, the Requirement description. This specification describes technical requirements for both the winches, the cabling they must manage, all technical and operator interfaces, as well as requirements for training and maintenance.

An inspection of the Heggernes measuring station will be carried out on 4 October 2023 at 12:00. The deadline for registration is 26 September 2023. During the inspection, the following will be discussed:

- Physical inspection of existing winches. If necessary, take measurements of physical dimensions and assess the room/space for the new installation.
- Inspection of connections and remote control devices/controls.
- Any other questions tenderers may wish to ask.
