Descripción: This procurement is for a sign procurement at the new Viking Age Museum in Oslo. The most important climate footprint and environmental impacts in this procurement are:

-Climate gas emissions and raw material consumption connected to the production of aluminium and steel signs. -Climate gas emissions connected to transport to the construction site. Concrete environmental requirements have been set in the competition in order to reduce the total climate footprint and environmental impact of the procurement. It has been estimated that these requirements will give a better climate and environmental effect than the use of climate and environment as the award criterion. High recycling rates are required in accordance with the best practice for steel and aluminium in order to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and raw material consumption from the procurement. Statsbygg has assessed that the potential for further climate and environmental gains through a competition for award criteria is limited. An award criteria will therefore, to a small degree, be expected to provide better climate and environmental performance than the stipulated minimum requirements. In order to optimise environmental gains, there is an option to emphasise emission free transport as a part of the award criteria. Based on this, the terms for utilising the provision in the Norwegian Public Procurement Regulations § 5 b second paragraph of the third period are being assessed as fulfilled. Statsbygg is therefore exempted from the obligation to weight climate and the environment with a minimum of 30 percent or prioritise this among the three highest weighted award criteria.
