Descripción: Tenderers shall complete the price form. This shall be done in the Excel form and electronically enclosed with the tender. The form cannot be changed. It is the tenderer's responsibility to submit a correct and complete tender. Missing the completed price form and /or wrong quality can result in the tender being rejected. VAT, but including all of the tenderer's other costs, but not freight (see the point on the logistics system). The offered discount on other products will not be included in the evaluation, but will be fixed on the contract. The contracting authority assumes that the discount level is representative of the tenderer's general price level and is not set significantly higher or lower than the discount level offered on the core assortment. If the contracting authority considers that the offered discount on other assortment is not in reasonable relation to the discount level of the core assortment, it may be assessed as a deviation or as a pricing model that is not suitable for identifying the economically most advantageous tender.

Nombre: Climate and environment

Descripción: The Contracting Authority has assessed climate footprint and environmental impact connected to the procurement of dental prostheses (prostheses), in accordance with the Public Procurement Regulations §5b. The assessment is connected to the nature of the procurement, i.e. environmental impact that typically occurs when production and delivery of individually adapted prosthetics, including material use, production and transport, assessed in a lifetime perspective. The procurement is for the production of smaller, individually adapted medical-technical products with limited material volume per unit. The identified environmental drivers are mainly connected to the production location (global versus local/Norwegian) and the accompanying transport systems. The market is small, with few suppliers. The product shall be delivered with a short delivery time due to patient needs. At the same time, this is a product with special adaptation that often needs adjustments. The value chain in this market is often global, most suppliers have production in China or Thailand. Due to the need for a short delivery time, the goods will be sent by air transport. However, there is national production and production in Europe, and there is, in particular, little need for air transport by the former. A combination of production links in Asia and Europe or Norway also occurs for some of the products. Based on an expected annual volume of approx. 3,500 prostheses and an estimated climate footprint of 200-450 g CO₂ equivalents per work, the total annual climate footprint is estimated to approx. 0.7-1.6 tonnes of CO₂ equivalents at Norwegian/European production. Import-based production with air transport can double or triple this figure, giving 1.4 - 5 tonnes of CO₂ emissions per annum. A local value chain with exclusively production in Norway and therefore reduced air transport is the environmental measure that would reduce climate and environmental footprint the most. This will give a price increase of 2-300% for the different deliveries. The absolute maximum reduction in greenhouse gas emissions will be in the area of 0.7 – 2.5 tons CO₂ equivalents per annum. The contracting authority considers the climate impact and the possibility of a reduction as very low, both per unit and in total for the contract. Based on this, the contracting authority considers that climate footprint and environmental impact connected to the procurement, seen in light of the contract's extent and character, is of immaterial importance, cf. the Public Procurement Regulations §5c. The procurement is therefore exempted from the obligation to use climate and environmental considerations as the award criteria or set special climate and environmental requirements.
