Menetluskorra kirjeldus: The Norwegian Building Quality Directorate (DiBK) shall contribute to the efficient construction of secure, environmentally friendly and available residences and buildings and that the requirements for the buildings are followed. The Directorate is an administrative body under the Ministry of Local Government and District (KDD). Our work is aimed at the municipalities, participants in the building process and the construction materials market. DiBK has 87 man-labour years, the office in central Oslo and at Gjøvik on 1 January 2027, DiBK will be merged with Husbanken to become a new housing and building director. It is not expected that this will affect the content or extent of this agreement. The joint services plan and building is a digital platform developed and managed by DiBK. It makes it easier to submit correct and complete plan proposals and building applications via digital solutions – and at the same time give municipalities a better basis for processing them quickly and efficiently. The joint services plan and construction are important tools for creating a more efficient, user friendly and future oriented planning and building application process. The cooperation between government actors and private suppliers is a central part of the development of the Joint Services plan and building. The public sector contributes with rules and management competence, whilst the private sector adds technological innovation and flexible systems.
