Cineál: Cáilíocht

Ainm: Climate and environment

Cur síos: It is in accordance with the Public Procurement Act § 5b 2nd section that the contracting authority can replace climate and environmental consideration as the award criteria with climate and environmental requirements in the requirement specifications, if this gives a better climate and environmental effect, and this is justified by the procurement documents. The Contracting Authority has determined that this is the case for this procurement. Production, distribution and The sale of fuel is strictly regulated and there is little variation in the environmental performance between suppliers. An award criteria on the environment will therefore have limited real impact on energy. Environmental requirements are instead set in the requirement specification, which gives a more direct and predictable climate effect. Amongst other things, there are: - a short distance requirement from the contracting authority's locations to the fuel stations, which reduces the transport need and the accompanying emissions for the Contracting Authority. - The tenderer is required to deliver statistics showing the calculated CO₂ emissions per litre. Based on this, the contracting authority considers that the climate and environmental requirements in the requirement specifications provide better climate and environmental effect than if the environment was weighted as the award criteria by 30%.
