of persons Part 2: Property damage insurances Tenderers can submit tenders for one or both parts. The parts are evaluated and awarded separately. The contracting authority can enter into a contract with up to two tenderers. This means that the contracting authority can enter into a contract with one tenderer for both parts, or enter into separate contracts with different tenderers for insurance of persons and property damage insurances respectively. The delivery shall include ordinary management and follow-up of the insurance contracts in the contract period. This includes, among other things, customer service, injury management, permanent gender neutral preferred and annual status or follow-up meetings with the municipalities. Furthermore, the tenderer shall be able to assist the municipalities with advice on damage prevention measures and risk mapping in municipal entities. The delivery shall also include appropriate digital solutions, for example a customer portal or equivalent system, which gives municipalities access to relevant information about the insurance contracts, damages, documentation and follow-up. The agreements shall, in total, provide the municipalities with a clear, efficient and robust insurance system, with clear routines and stable services throughout the entire contract period.

Pasirinkimo galimybės:

Galimybių aprašymas: It is a prerequisite for the insurance contracts that the tenderer has good knowledge of the municipality's activities, organisation, insurance objects, damage history and risk picture. A contract period of up to 5 years gives better continuity in the insurance relationship, injury treatment, advice and injury prevention work. This is particularly important as damage development, risk reducing measures and the effect of damage prevention work must normally be followed over time. The contracting authority estimates that a maximum contract period of five years is proportional and does not go further than what is necessary to safeguard the municipalities' need for stability, continuity and effective follow-up of the insurance portfolio. The options are customer controlled and the contracting authority is free to not use the options if the contract does not function satisfactorily or the need changes. Based on this, the contracting authority considers special conditions that justify a framework agreement with a maximum duration of five years, cf. the procurement regulations § 26-1 fourth paragraph.

Pavadinimas: Climate and environment

Aprašymas: According to its nature, the procurement has a climate footprint and an environmental impact that is immaterial. Climate and environmental considerations are therefore not used as the award criteria or as special requirements in the competition, cf. the procurement regulations § 7-9 fifth paragraph. Decisive emphasis has been put on the procurement for insurance services when assessing. The contract mainly consists of insurance coverage and financial risk hand over, premium and contract administration, customer service, consultancy, digital document handling and processing of claims. The service in itself involves limited consumption of goods, materials and transport, and the direct climate and environmental impact of the delivery is therefore considered immaterial. The procurement does not include trade works, clearance, repairs, reconstruction or delivery of goods and materials after damage. Such services are not a part of the contractual works in this competition. Based on this, the contracting authority considers that the exception in the procurement regulations § 7-9 fifth paragraph is applicable.
