Kritērijs:

Veids: Kvalitāte

Apraksts: Grounds 1. The nature and work of the procurement. The procurement is for a Software as a Service (SaaS) system for performance architecture and quality management. The service is fully cloud based and market surveys show that such software is delivered as a standardised software system. As a starting point, it is known that the climate and environmental impact of cloud services can be significant. This is due to possibly high energy consumption, non-environmentally friendly cooling and a lack of reuse of waste heat in computer centres where the cloud service is coughed. 2. Assessments of the legal state The main rule for procurements is that the contracting authority shall weight climate and miljō consideration with a minimum of 30% cf. the Public Procurement Regulations (FOA) § 7-9 second paragraph. The aim of the provision is that the requirements and criteria in accordance with this provision shall aim at "reducing the procurement's total climate footprint or environmental impact" cf. the Public Procurement Regulations § 7-9 first section. Alternatively, there can be requirements for climate and environment in the procurement's requirement specifications, cf. the Public Procurement Regulations § 7-9 fourth paragraph, but only if it is clear that it will have better climate and environmental effect than weighting climate and environment by 30 %. The contracting authority has assessed the use of the third section of this procurement. The contracting authority has, however, had market surveys published on Doffin/TED. The results of the survey indicate that the cloud service market must be seen as immature. The cloud service providers have little control and influence on the operation of data centres where the service is coughed. It is also difficult to document real climate impact. As relevant requirements in the requirement specifications would be related to hosting at sub-providers, it is considered that such requirements to the service provider would be disproportionate. The Regulations § 7-9 fifth paragraph states that the contracting authority can fail to set climate and environmental requirements if "the procurement is of its nature has a climate footprint and an environmental impact that is immaterial, and this is justified in the procurement documents." Review The procured service is a pure SaaS system that is completely developed in the market, where relevant systems are coughed at other than the cloud service provider. Storage and processing will be done in the tenderer's existing infrastructure. This procurement does not trigger expansions, particularly hardware or new operations that generate environmental impact. The procurement does not involve any hardware procurements, installation of physical components, transport or logistics, and will have a minimal consumption of resources at the contracting authority. There are, thus, no significant environmental impacts related to production, replacement or disposal of products connected to the procurement. The service stores a modest data quantity of 300 GB. This is equivalent to a very low energy consumption in a modern cloud system and it represents an insignificant environmental impact and climate footprint. Considering the low data volume, the Contracting Authority believes that the procurement will not affect energy consumption in a measurable way, change the choice of technology or operational model for suppliers, or give gains in the form of lower emissions or less resource use. The risk of limiting competition is considered to be real when weighting the climate and environment by 30%, without the award criteria in the competition contributing to real environmental effect. Conclusion The Planning and Building Agency assesses that the procurement of a SaaS system for enterprise architecture and quality management has an immaterial climate footprint and environmental impact, and that climate and environmental requirements in this competition will not have an actual effect. The terms for exemptions in the PPR § 7-9 fifth paragraph are therefore assessed.
